CAMPBELL, SANTA CLARA COUNTY, CALIFORNIA.

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 21, 1927.

A carload of prunes was shipped from the Totman-Mendonsa orchard in Colusa, Colusa county, to San Francisco recently and brought $94.75 a ton. The carload contained about twenty-four tons. A carload of Robe de Sargent prunes from the same orchard brought $105 a ton.

Of 215 students at the University Farm, Davis, who replied to a questionnaire submitted by the University of California, an even hundred plan to return to the home farm when they complete their studies. Twenty-two more will farm elsewhere, seven will rent farms and thirty-two plan to do other work until they can farm. Fifty-four plan to enter work connected with the agricultural industry, but not to farm.

A crop of China cabbage, averaging ten pounds to the head, has been grown by Captain Christofferson, farmer of the Soda Canyon district, near Napa, in five weeks. Christofferson estimates that ten crops may easily be grown on average ground in a year. China cabbage was but recently introduced in Napa county, with the idea of utilizing it for chicken greens, but Christofferson states that the plant is as edible as other varieties of cabbage.

About 200 bales have been ginned at the Porterville cotton gin. Daily operations running from thirty to thirty-five bales, and the plant is expected to be running full capacity within two or three weeks, according to Lloyd Wickman, manager. Fully half of the cotton already ginned has been shipped, most of it being contract cotton, growers getting approximately $125 per bale.

Newcastle, Placer county, has completed shipping the Levi cling crop East, and only about 15 more cars of fruit—persimmons and grapes, remain to be shipped. This will leave the seasonal output just under 2,000 cars. The experiment of shipping the Levi clings East has been a great success, since they netted around $40 a ton, as opposed to little more than half that amount offered by the canners.

The Lodi high school livestock judging team last week won the right to attend the Portland and Chicago exhibitions, as the best stock judging team of high school class in the state. Willows was second and Salinas third. Santa Rosa high school teams won the horticultural and poultry judging contests. The contests were held at the College of Agriculture, Davis, Yolo county.

The first of the 1928 lemon crop has started East from packing houses of the Ontario-Cucamonga exchange in Upland. Eight cars went out recently, according to Harry B. Harlow, D. K. Packing House manager. Last year at this time 200 cars of lemons were in storage in the Ontario-Upland district. There are none at present. The shortage of lemons, combined with the recent unprecedented heat in the Middle West and East has boosted the price to new high records.

Contrary to general belief, the production of beef cattle in California is not decreasing. The impression that California's production of fat cattle is decreasing when compared to the human population of the state is not based on fact, says R. M. Hagen, assistant managing director of the Western Cattle Marketing Association. The present good price levels on beef cattle here on the Pacific Coast, Hagen states, have been falsely attributed to the supposed cattle shortage, but as a matter of fact during the past five years California's production has increased 4 per cent faster than the increase in population for the state.

Sheep, hogs and beef cattle made substantial increases in Tehama county during the past year. This is according to figures given to the farm advisor's office by the State Department of Agriculture. The report shows that sheep made a 10 per cent increase, beef cattle a slight increase, and hogs about 15 per cent increase, the figures showing that there are today in Tehama county 215,000 head of sheep, 37,000 head of beef cattle, 15,500 hogs and 4,000 dairy cows.

Golden State News of Interest to All

Despite a growth probably unparalleled in any other equal sized territory, the trend toward prosperity in California has been steady and substantial. A survey made by the California Development Association showed that this state's net industrial income, including agriculture, lumbering, fishery products and value added by manufacturing, has increased from $513,657,000 in 1909 to $2,147,501,000 in 1925.

California cities, both large and small are fighting for street and highway safety in a general campaign for the adoption of the uniform traffic ordinance, which the women of California, under the auspices of the California Development Association, are advocating to all communities in the state. San Francisco, Burlingame, Palo Alto, Sacramento and San Leandro are cities which most recently fell into line in the campaign.

California motorists to the number of 35,362 fell afoul of the state motor vehicle laws during the first six months of 1927. This is shown in a report issued by the State Motor Vehicle Department. Driving while intoxicated, speeding and driving recklessly accounted for 85 per cent of the total. The records show 27,123 paid fines or served jail sentences for driving under the influence of liquor and speeding.

All California state motor traffic officers hereafter are to drive motorcycles instead of automobiles while in the performance of their duty. This is ordered by Frank G. Snook, chief of the State Motor Vehicle Department, who says that when he assumed office nearly half of the state's force was using automobiles instead of motorcycles.

One of the largest airplane transportation and manufacturing concerns to enter the California field is the Maddux Air Line, Inc., a Delaware corporation, which last week filed articles of incorporation with Secretary of State Frank C. Jordan. The Maddux corporation, capitalized at $5,000,000 will have its headquarters in Los Angeles, and the state agent is J. L. Maddux. The company is interested generally in the airplane industry.

The Federal Land Bank of Berkeley last week reported receipts of 244 applications for a total of $1,504,400 in loans during September. The bank made 95 loans totaling $389,500 during the month. A total of 164 appraisals were made, comprising 20,344 acres in California, 8,915 in Utah, and 11,153 in Arizona. The loans were divided by states as follows: California, $196,200; Utah, $92,500; Nevada, $72,000, and Arizona, $28,800.

An announcement was made last week that San Francisco's fifth annual horse show would be staged November 10, 11 and 12, at the St. Francis Riding Club. San Francisco's horse show is one of the banner events on the season's social calendar with many of the horse owners exhibiting their own horses in the ring. There will be many trophies and sweepstakes in all of the classes.

After re-electing all officers, the seventh annual meeting of the Redwood Empire Association concluded its sessions with a banquet at Santa Rosa last week. Outstanding in the recommendations was a demand that the Redwood Empire's marathon, run last summer from San Francisco to Grants Pass, Ore., be made an annual international event. A first prize of $10,000 and at least $5,000 in additional prizes were favored.

Presided over by Mrs. Ernest Wallace of San Francisco as chairman, the state commission to plan for the establishment of a separate state penal institution for women offenders last week met at the state capitol. Plans were discussed to begin work immediately on the task of looking over sites for the proposed institution, considering types of buildings, etc. The commission will make its report to the governor.

Officials of the maintenance of way department of the Southern Pacific Railroad announced last week that decision on whether to build a Carquinez Straits bridge from Martinez to Benicia would not be reached before November. At the present time the Duncanson-Haralson Company of San Francisco is boring under instruction of the Southern Pacific to test the condition of the strait bed for installation of piling and bridge supports. If the report of the company is satisfactory and if an appropriation for building the bridge is obtained officials said the bridge will be erected. The situation at present was characterized as "favorable."

MAN! MAN! TAKE DAT OL' HEARSE AWAY F'UM BEFO' MY CABIN DO'

(Mountain View Register)

With the best intentions in the world, meaning only peace and goodwill to men, Bay Hayes, in his capacity as assistant undertaker, came near wrecking one of the finest half-chicken-on-toast places on this peninsula the other day when he parked his hearse in front of Dinah's Shack when returning from the cemetery after a funeral. Bay was hungry for some of that famous half-chicken stuff, and he thought it was perfectly fair enough to park the hearse there while he went in and ate.

But the colored people in Dinah's Shack felt differently about the matter. They got together in clusters and talked in low, but excited tones, and finally informed the manager that unless "Dat ol' dead wagon" was taken away immediately, they would take themselves away in a body and very forthwithly.

But Bay had already eaten his fill, paid his bill slipped in the clutch and slipped away with "Dat ol' dead Wagon," and all was again serene.

The Deep-Dyed Dope

Absolute knowledge I have none,
But my aunt's washerwoman's son,
Heard a policeman on his beat
Say to the laborer on the street.

That he had a letter just last week,
Handwritten in the finest Greek
From a Chinese collic in Timbuc-

too,
Who said that a son in Cuba knew
Of a colored gent in a Texas town
Who got it straight from a circus clown,

That a man in Klondike got the news
From a gang of South American Jews
About some fellow in Borneo,
Who knew a man who claimed to know

A hermit who lived beside a lake,
Whose mother-in-law will undertake
To prove a friend's sister's niece
Has stated in a nicely written piece

That she has a son that knows about
The date the new Ford car comes out.

Do Your Bit

In view of the approaching Christmas mailing season, the following paragraph offers food for thought and action:

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 18.—The main postoffice will hold a government auction of 1300 unclaimed articles tomorrow at post-al headquarters, Seventh and Mission streets. The articles represent a year's accumulation of unclaimed parcels and range from ropes of pearls to ropes of hemp. This will be the largest auction ever held by the department here according to Postmaster Harry L. Todd.

These are all articles which for various reasons have failed of delivery poorly written, incorrect and insufficient address, poorly done up parcels that become broken and loose their contents, individuals moving and leaving no forwarding addresses, etc. The postal department is anxious to deliver every piece of mail consigned to its care, and is making every effort to accomplish that end, but it needs the hearty and intelligent help of every user of the mails. Read the bulletins giving instructions and then "Do Your Bit."

The Choral Society held its second enthusiastic rehearsal and class last week when about 40 were present. With several performances practically assured some real work will be begun at once and all members are urged to attend regularly to prevent any unnecessary slowing up in the drills.

Conservation Proves Its Worth

The old adage that "the proof of the pudding is in the eating" may be applied to those sack dams which the Valley Water Conservation Association built in the Gaudelupe creek last fall. Some orchardists who live below the dams two or three miles are telling us how their wells have responded to the increased amount of water which the dams forced into the gravel. Here is what Nelson Barton says who lived on Hillsdale avenue, three miles from the dams:

"I am thoroughly convinced that the temporary sack dams on the Gaudelupe creek demonstrated to the farmers in this vicinity the necessity of doing something permanent in regard to conserving the waste flood water. All through the month of June this year the water in my well was thirty feet higher than it had been for a number of years previously. House wells that were practically dry at this time (October 10) a year ago are showing no signs of weakening."

George Goodwin also of Hillsdale avenue says: "At this time last year the water in my irrigating well was so low that I was unable to pump. At the present time I am getting a fairly good stream which I attribute to the sack dams. I would like to see permanent dams erected as soon as possible on the Gaudelupe creek, at least before rainfall."

John L. Marciel o nNarvez avenue, a neighbor of Barton, feels that the sack dams on the Gaudelupe did a vast amount of good and adds: "For the past three years there has been no water in the pit of my irrigating well, but now there is still considerable water. My house well, which was unusually low at this time a year ago, is now as high as it was last May. I firmly believe that permanent dams will be a great benefit."

The following data is from A. W. Greathead who lives on Pearl avenue, two miles below the dams "My well is one-half mile east of the Almaden road and road and our water level has always been, until the dry years, within 20 to 40 feet from the surface. When the dry years came we were forced to lower our pump from 75 to 135 feet to get any water at all. We have been very fortunate the past season as the water level has come back to something like we used to have before the dry years and I believe we must have gotten some benefit from the restraining dams in the Gaudelupe creek. I would like to see the good work go on and thus assure the growers an unfailing water supply."

School teachers who succumb to the darts of Dan Cupid during the school year are not subject to dismissal for that reason, and regulations enacted by local districts in requiring their discharges are strictly invalid and contrary to the spirit of the Teachers' Tenure Act. This opinion, settling a long standing dispute among school people, was handed to the State Department of Education by Attorney General U. S. Webb.

Business men of the state are showing considerable interest in the announcement that Butler Brothers, national wholesalers of general merchandise, contemplate the construction of a $1,000,000 plant covering eight acres, in San Francisco. The firm, which is now celebrating its fiftieth anniversary, intends opening the distributing house as early in 1928 as possible, to serve merchants in the states west of the Rocky Mountains.

Announcing plans to manufacture pulp and paper from grapevine cuttings, the Sacramento Pulp and Paper Company, $1,000,000 corporation, was formed in Sacramento last week. Paper will be made under a process discovered by H. D. Wagon, one of the corporation directors. It was said, and Sacramento has been selected as the manufacturing point because there are approximately 100,000 acres of grapevines available within a radius of 50 miles.

A compliment always passes for more than its face value.

ROOSEVELT DAY OBSERVED OCT. 27

The annual Roosevelt Day ceremonies will be held at the base of the towering Roosevelt redwood on the Campbell High School campus next Thursday, October 27, at 2 p. m.

The program will be opened by music by the the High School band, a 35-piece organization under the direction of Mr. Thiekle.

Hon. Herbert Jones will be the speaker for the occasion. Campbell is one of the few favored spots where this great citizen has left a living memento. He planted a small redwood sapling on the school grounds while president. This tree now has attained a symmetrical growth and nears the 100-foot mark.

The commemoration of Roosevelt's birthday has become an annual affair at Campbell, when the community gathers at this tree to do him honor.

LAST RITES FOR D. W. WAITE

The funeral services of the late Demmon W. Waite were held last week. Members of Charity Lodge F. and A. M. acted as pallbearers. They were N. C. Galbraith, C. H. Whitman, R. G. Archibald, F. K. Bartholomew, E. R. Kennedy and G. S. Robson. Interment was at Los Gatos cemetery.

Mr. Waite, a member of the G. A. R. and Masonic order at Campbell, was a highly respected citizen of this community for many years. For some time past he had not been able to do much work. A few years ago they moved to a Watsonville ranch and recently to another on the White road, east of San Jose.

He is survived by his wife, Meda L. Waite, a former postmaster of Campbell, who is tender sincere sympathy by her many friends.

MAIL EARLY!

Mrs. M. E. Purmort, substitute letter carrier mailed the first Christmas parcels at the local postoffice this week. Using a popular slang phrase Mrs. Purmort "Knows her onions." These parcels go to the Philippines and she has found by experience that in order to be delivered by Christmas they must be away early. Parcels for foreign countries that must pass through custom houses should be mailed early.

John D. Rockefeller, Jr., has donated to the University of California, at Berkeley, in excess of $1,750,000 for the erection and furnishing of a 500-room dormitory building to serve as a residence and social center in Berkeley for both American and foreign university students.

Building and loan associations in California have taken a leading position among the various states in membership, assets and rate of growth during 1926. This was shown in a report of the secretary to the United States League of Local Building and Loan Associations, delivered at the annual convention of the league in Asheville, N. C. Aggregate assets of about 290 associations operating in the state at the close of 1926 increased approximately $50,000,000 during the year, totaling $235,000,000.

Virtually every important nation on the globe will be represented when the Pacific Trade and Travel Exposition opens in the San Francisco Civic Auditorium on November 11. It was announced last week by officials of the Foreign Trade Club, which is sponsoring the exposition. Many of the features that made the Panama-Pacific Exposition famous will be reproduced in an up-to-date form, and the entire exposition will form a highly specialized review of the products exchanged throughout the vast Pacific region.

If you imagine that this is a cold unsympathetic world, tell people that you have a cold and listen to their suggestions.

TOUR-OLOG ENJOYED BY STUDY CLUB

Traveling is one of the real delights of life, but next to that is the pleasure of hearing of another's journeys, and that pleasure was afforded the Country Woman's Club last Monday when Mrs. J. Ainsley gave an account of her recent Mediterranean and European tour.

As chairman of the afternoon she had arranged a unique program. She started her autologue aboard the steamer Homeric, bound for the Azores. She conducted her friends through the beautiful and interesting scenes in Spain, Italy, Algiers, Egypt, Palestine, Greece, Switzerland, France, Belgium, England and Scotland.

Ancient and modern wonders and gorgeous scenery passed in beautiful and tantalizing pictures before the inner eyes of her hearers.

As a happy interlude, Emma Mosher, one of the younger artists of Mrs. Vandine Putman Saunders Dancing School gave two daintily executed Spanish dances, and two Scottish ones, in each group wearing lovely miniature costumes of the countries represented.

Another delight was the musical program arranged. The afternoon was opened with group singing of "Long, Long Trail." At appropriate points, Mrs. Herbert Shadle sang "In Old Madrid," "O Italia," "Annie Laurie" and "Coming Home," Mrs. Robson acting as accompanist.

At the business session announcement was made of the County Federation meeting to be held in Cupertino, October 28, with the Copa de Ora Club as hostesses.

GEOLOGY OF VALLEY LUNCHEON TOPIC

Louis Shelley, chairman, relieved Kiwanians of their dimes as easily as the "old time shell game." (was Shelley the name of the inventor of the game?) A relative no doubt. He produced sport for the "Blow-hards" also at no little expense.

It was voted that the club accept the Chamber of Commerce invitation to assist in giving the program for February 22. They will cooperate with the Campbell Choral Society. The club special committee for library benefit met with the Country Woman's Club last evening to plan for the big program to be staged for the library building fund.

The annual election committee was appointed by President "Tac" Cutting. Dean Whitman, Roy Archibald, Fred Clancy, Horace Lea and Geo. Burrow will conduct that part of the activities.

Ben Curry, who recently made his vacation trip to Tijuana, said he had no apologies to make for his behavior.

Capt. Styles, bow-maker and archer of Los Gatos, gave a very interesting account of his work and hunting big game with bow and arrow. He has killed some big game such as mountain lion, bear and deer with his arrows. Some of his friends have killed African lions, elephants and Alaskan grizzlies.

The modern bow scientifically made is a much better weapon than those of former days and modern wide head arrows pass through the animal cutting its way causing internal hemorrhage and almost immediate death.

Harold Cramer will be chief disciplinarian next week and as a birch wielder, we have yet to learn his prowess, but have your lessons, boys. Fred Buss will be speaker of the day and talk on the geology of Santa Clara valley.

Alabama highway engineers are urging that all highways be constructed with at 200 feet of vision at the approach to curves.

Lone Scouts

The regular monthly meeting of the Campbell Lone Scout Wigwam was held Saturday night in the clubroom beneath the Congregational Church at 8 p. m. The purpose of this meeting was to hold a re-election of officers. Mr. Cutting was elected president, Harris Gardner, vice president; Cecil Keesling, vice president; Theo. Anderson, vice president; and Spencer Holmes, secretary-treasurer.

The Wigwam will now hold its meetings every two instead of once a month as before. A hike will be staged every two weeks also. It was also decided during the meeting that Cecil Keesling be director of degrees, Theo. Anderson temporary program director and Spencer Holmes editor of the Campbell Lone Scout Annual.

The Busy Beaver Tribe of the Campbell Lone Scouts recently received its charter. The Busy Beaver tribe was organized in February, 1927, by Spencer Holmes. The following Lone Scouts are charter members of the Busy Beaver tribe: Spencer Holmes, chief; Cecil S. Keesling, sashem; Theo. Anderson, scribe; Lawrence Templeton, wampum beare; Joseph Roscigno, Perley Payne and Noel Voge.

On Saturday, October 8, the Scouts of the Campbell wigwam made a trip to the Oak Hill quick-silver mines in the foothills near San Jose. The mines being deserted, the scouts helped themselves to a good time exploring the mines and collecting stray pieces of ore.

Edw. Melvin Pension Agent

Washington, D. C., September 30, 1927: The U. S. Department of the Interior announces the appointment as pension agent of Edwin H. Melvin, of 300 West Main street, Los Gatos. Melvin has served as American Legion Service Officer since the inception of that office in 1919, representing the U. S. Veterans' Bureau.

This appointment means that he is now in a position to handle claims against the government for Civil War, Spanish - American War, Indian Campaigns and World War veterans, their widows, families or heirs without expense to themselves. Persons benighted to military or naval service believing that they have claims in ice, or families of the same, may now consult Melvin as to their rights. He may be found during office hours at his office in the Melvin Funeral Chapel.

German automobile manufacturers have built cars that reduce wind resistance to a minimum, but they are not popular, due to their odd shapes.

Revenge is sweet only to the very small individuals.

the Lone Scouts will hold their regular semi-monthly meeting in their den beneath the Congregational Church. All boys and men who are interested in Lone Scouting are cordially invited to attend.

Another trip to the Indian burial grounds in the sand dunes near Pescadero is now being planned by the Scouts but definite date has not been set for it as yet.

—Spencer Holmes.

FAMILY IS ESTABLISHED INSTITUTION

Certain pessimists may be inclined to resent the meeting of the Conference on Family Life in America, in session recently in New York. No greater indignity can be offered your confirmed pessimist than to offer to separate him from his gloom. Now, the mere fact of the conference is an admission that there is such a thing as family life in the unhappy land, and this is not going to sit well with the despairing philosophers who have been enjoying the misery of belief that family life is extinct in America.

The disgruntled ones, however, may find a gleam of hopeful despair in the concession the conference makes by discussing the question whether or not the "family is a gradually but definitely disappearing institution." Of course, before this problem can be settled to the satisfaction of everybody, there must be an agreement on a definition of the word "disappearing." If in its present application it means that families are growing smaller, the affirmatives win the debate without a struggle. Nobody will even ask for the evidence; it is all about us.

On the other hand, if disappearing is taken to mean that there are not so many families some contentious person with a knack for figures may prove that instead of becoming fewer families are more numerous, even in proportion to the population. Take round numbers just as a matter of illustration. If the average size of the family was ten when the country had twenty million people, there were two million families. With only five times as many people, we have ten times as many families.

The prospectus of the conference indicates that certain speakers will object to this view on the ground that these domestic groups are not families because some of the members may go to the movies, listen to the radio or drive about evenings in their flivvers. Maybe the objectors are right. It has been the habit of the serious-minded, certainly since the days of Solomon, to mourn the good old times. Let them mourn, they enjoy it.—Ex.

OTHER TIMES, OTHER MANNERS

Chicagoans who are by no means old remember when, in order to keep clear of the authorities, it was the custom of prize fighters and the spectators of an impending bout to board at dead of night a darkened train, of which only the conductor, the engineer and the fight manager knew the destination. The train would be hauled to some out-of-the-way spot in Indiana or Wisconsin, and there the fight would be held at daybreak in an isolated barn. Conditions are different today.

So far has the law been changed that, as one of the preliminaries to the Tunney-Dempsey fight in Soldier's field, there marched across the ring a proud procession of powerful public officials, seeking popular approval—and getting it—for what they had done for the city and the State in bringing the fight to Chicago.

Among the spectators were the governors of sixteen states, whose duty it would have been, a few years ago, to suppress any attempt to hold a fight anywhere within their jurisdictions. Besides the governors were uncounted members of Congress and a host of other public functionaries.

Conspicuous everywhere about the vast arena were women, very many of them women of wealth and high social position. For many of them the battle was the first they ever saw; to others prize fights were no novelty. And among the women, the fight progressed, there was the same eager enthusiasm that prevailed among the men.

Times have changed since that day in Carson City when Mrs. Fitzsimmons, sitting at the ring-side, horrified polite womankind by shrilly entreating her husband, Lanky Bob, to jab Jim Corbett in the slats.—Chicago Daily News.

THE ROADSIDE PICNIC

It is a pretty sight almost anywhere along the main roads of California now, to see the automobile parties camping out by the way, consuming their hard boiled eggs and coffee and ham sandwiches. Many people who could not afford to put up at good hotels, are yet able to take automobile trips on this basis, and they get no end of happiness out of their life in the open air.

The women folks, after their interminable dishwashing and cooking over stoves, enjoy the freedom from labor which such bohemian living brings. It seems wonderful to them to toss the paper plates and paper coverings into the bushes, that habit. They have got to learn to keep their refuse where it will not spoil the beauty of the scenery.

Appetite makes a simple lunch go a long way, and some of these folks with their keen enjoyment get more benefit from their plain meal than those who consume elaborate dinners in luxur surroundings.—Ex.

The easiest road to wealth is to have a rich relative die and leave you a fortune.

LITTLE LEAKS — BIGGER BILLS

Learn to read your water meter. You will find it not only interesting, but in many ways profitable to know the story it tells. We will be glad to explain the operation of a water meter to any of our customers and to show just how it works, as we have a demonstration meter at the plant for that purpose. If you know how to read your water meter and understand its operation, it may help you discover leaks and to prevent waste.

It is possible that somewhere in your system of water pipes or in your plumbing fixtures there may be a leak that you are not aware of, where water is escaping and going to waste, causing you to pay for more water than you are actually using. Water leaks make larger water bills. There is no desire on our part to charge you for wasted water, but we must render bills according to meter readings, and it is up to you to use the necessary care to prevent waste if you do not want to pay for it. One dripping will waste, at least calculation, 60 cu. ft. of water in a month. And one small leak, having only 1-32-in. opening, will add at least 1000 cu. ft. to your monthly consumption.

Some of the causes that produce water waste are corrosion, which eats through the pipes; poor workmanship in making joints; a worn syphon ball in the water-closet; unequal settling of the ground, causing damage to the pipe; worn washers in the faucets, etc. In consequence of corrosion, cases are frequently found where the pressure on the street main is 100 lb., yet the pressure at an adjacent dwelling is only a few pounds when a faucet is opened for use, and when this condition exists it can be remedied only by the consumer replacing the old, rusted pipe with new pipe, or, in case of a leak, having the necessary repairs made to stop it.

How to Find It.—Water-closets should be examined frequently, in order to keep the consumption of water on a normal basis. After a closet has been flushed and the tank is again filled, there should be no movement of water in the bowl. If there is, then water is wasting into the sewer. A leak at the bath tub, wash basin, or sink can be easily detected because the water can be seen dripping from the faucet, but a leak at the water-closet is harder to find and sometimes is cannot be detected except by holding a strip of paper in the water near the outlet of the bowl, and if there is any water wasting it will move the strip of paper. There are some types of closets that will leak without disturbing the water in the bowl, and the leak could not be detected except by this test.

Make This Test.—If the Consumption of water appears to be abnormal, or if you wish to be sure that you have no leaks in your system of pipes, make the following test: Be sure that all faucets and outlets are properly closed, and do not draw any water during the test, which should continue for 10 or 15 minutes. Then go to your meter and watch the hand on the dial marked "one foot." This dial is divided into ten parts, each division being one-tenth of a cubic foot. If this hand continues to move, a leak is indicated, the size of which can be determined by timing the meter, as one-tenth in 15 minutes, or two-tenths in 15 minutes, etc. If there is a leak, call a plumber immediately. Do not allow a leak to continue indefinitely, as it adds to your bill every minute. We will gladly assist consumers in overcoming any difficulty with their water system. "Service" is our watchword—help us to keep it. —The Campbell Water Co.

TACKLE CLUB IS BEING FORMED AT CAPITOLA

CAPITOLA-BY-SEA, Oct. 20.—Angling fans of California are jubilant over the announcement of the formation of the Capitola Light Tackle Club. Similar to the nationally-famed Tuna Club of Santa Catalina Island the new organization is being hailed everywhere as the greatest forward step in furthering the great Waltonian sport that this section of the State has ever taken.

"Central California has long needed an organization to parallel the Catalina Tuna Club and I know sportsmen will be eager to support the project," declared E. R. Kauffman of San Francisco, editor and publisher of the Pacific Sportsman Magazine and one of the founders of the new club, here today.

"Capitola is the logical point for the northern angling club for many reasons," he continued. "It is easily reached from all points in the central portion of the State and its location on Monterey bay insures sportsmen of a tremendous variety of game fish the year around. Among the scores of varieties of the finney tribe found in these waters are such outstanding game fish as albacore, barracuda, giant sea bass, bonito, white sea bass, salmon, striped bass and mackerel."

Construction of a model 22-room club house, on a separate pile foundation adjacent to the Capitola pleasure pier, will begin today. The club equipment will include two motor craft together with thirty small boats and a number of outboard motors.

Dewey Johnson, speed boat enthusiast of Capitola, is arranging to co-operate in the new project by providing a fleet of speed boats, some of which will travel as fast as 50 miles per hour carrying from 12 to 18 passengers. Dewey will also operate several passenger boat service from Capitola to Del Monte, Monterey, Santa Cruz and other points on Monterey bay.

Kauffman states that the clubhouse will be completed within 90 days, when a grand opening will be staged. The use of the club house and its equipment will be free to members. Membership in the new club may be had at nominal rates, and will be limited to a small number of enthusiasts.

The object of the club is to foster the use of light tackle for taking the various species of fish. Suitable trophies and buttons will be given by the club to members accomplishing outstanding feats in art of angling.

All records for tonnage hauled over the Sierras during the heavy harvest month of September were broken this year by the Southern Pacific, according to figures compiled by J. H. Dyer, general manager. A total of 54,107 cars passed Summit station during the month, exceeding the previous record by 7,875 cars. An average of 1,803 cars was moved over the mountain daily, exceeding by 163 any previous daily average for September. Delay in the harvest of the grape crop was responsible for the heavy movement of eastbound freight.

Citrus growers of Tulare county are enthusiastically anticipating opening of the orange picking season, expected about the first of November. The crop will be off 35 per cent in opinion of Horticultural Commissioner Frank R. Brann, but this is not discouraging as the price is expected to bring up the returns. Tulare county oranges are the first of the new year's crop to reach the market. The crop is rather spotted, but all growers will have a reasonable harvest.

NEW HIGHWAY IS PLANNED SOUTH

Plans for a high speed, double track highway that will cut down the running time between San Francisco and Los Angeles by three hours and a half, have been disclosed here following a conference between representatives of the California Highway Development Association and the Westside Highway Association.

The proposal is to submit the project to the voters at the next general election. Preliminary preparations for a State-wide campaign of education in behalf of the measure are now well under way, it is said. A complete study of the route of the highway, down the Westside of the San Joaquin valley has been made by the engineering department of the California Highway Development Association. A method for the financing of the construction of the road has been worked out by the two organizations, the Westside and the California Highway Development Association, details of which are to be announced in the near future, it is said.

The movement for the Westside Highway Association is being led by Dr. W. W. Goodrich, president of the organization. They have enlisted the support of Senator Roy Felton, member of the roads and highway committee of the State Senate, who has suggested the method and manner of financing the project, which will perhaps be the biggest thing in road construction ever attempted by any State in the Union.

"This highway will be of the utmost value to all sections of California," said Senator Felton. "The plan has met with wide favor both here and in the south. There is no question but what such a road would do much to bring the North and the South closer together and would greatly stimulate tourist travel to California."

The highway when completed will be unique in the highways of the world, it is declared, and will mark a new era in road building. The plans call for two roadways paralleling each other, 30 feet wide and separated by a strip 10 feet wide which can be used as a parking space.

The proposed route of the highway carries it through practically undeveloped territory. The distance between towns will average fully 75 miles. In view of this and the fact that an effort will be made to avoid towns where possible, it is proposed to have no speed limit for the cars traveling this road.

All intersecting highways will be underpass to add to the public safety. There will be no railroad grade crossings. There will be stretches of highway that will be without a turn or curve for 250 miles. The route of this Westside highway will avoid the Ridge route and its attendant grades, using a low level pass hitherto unused.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Battee have returned to their home, after a very delightful sojourn with friends in San Francisco.

Mr. Kenneth Ballin of Santa Rosa was a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Hawes.

Automobile parts, for replacement repair purposes, exported from the United States during the first half of 1927, reached a total value of $22,614,200.
